

ALLIED FORCES, STRONGLY REINFORCED, PROGRESSING SATISFACTORILY AFTER PENETRATING GERMAN PRIMARY AND SECONDARY DEFENSES ALONG THE NORMANDY COAST

FRESH LANDINGS, AIRBORNE TROOPS, MADE IN THE NIGHT

By International News Service
American and British forces in northern France, strongly reinforced by "continued" landings, have made "satisfactory progress" after penetrating German primary and secondary defenses along the Norman coast. Supreme Allied Headquarters revealed today.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told of the favorable progress, in his third communique since the liberating invaders stormed ashore under cover of a powerful air and naval barrage as other airborne troops landed far to the rear of enemy lines.

The communique revealed also that fresh landings of airborne troops were made during the night to reinforce the Allied beachhead. It added:

"Allied forces continued landing on the northern coast of France throughout yesterday. Satisfactory progress was made."

Those Allied invasion forces, of which American Rangers and Commandos formed an important part, still were receiving the support of huge naval and air armadas. After initial attempts to interfere with the landings proved costly to lighter Nazi warships, no more such attempts to hamper the seaborne landings were made.

Whatever German coastal batteries that were still able to operate after the terrific sea and air pounding dealt them yesterday were being bombarded constantly by Allied warships, Gen. Eisenhower added.

Four successive times, Allied 4-motored bombers blasted German railway communications and bridges in the general battle area, obviously to disrupt Nazi attempts to bolster their anti-invasion forces. The enemy, on the other hand, increased aerial activities. German warplanes struck both at the beachhead forces and upon the Allied bombing formations boring inland. At least 30 Nazi planes were shot down.

Despite the increased enemy air action, Gen. Eisenhower's latest

Hulmeville Council Names Webb To Post

HULMEVILLE, June 7.—Hulmeville borough council, in session on Monday evening in the town hall, named Reginald Webb as deputy tax collector, following consideration of the delinquent tax problem.

Councilmen assembled were President Norman Davis, Reginald Webb, Walter Fry, Samuel J. Illick, George Bilger and A. E. A. Bronson. The burgess, Leon R. Conly, was also in attendance.

The highway committee reported on street conditions. The council hopes to make arrangements with a repairman from a neighboring borough to make some necessary repairs on Green street and some other thoroughfares, the borough to provide material and labor assistance.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $473.99 in the treasury.

The secretary, Frank Forker, was instructed to write the Badenhausen Corp. at Cornwells Heights, acknowledging the gift of a flag pole for use in the borough's memorial park site. The pole will be placed this evening. Members of the park committee have also been notified to meet with the council committee at the park site at seven o'clock tonight.

Council has warned residents to halt the practice of disposing of waste material in the body of water known as the "beaver," such practice being claimed a menace to health.

The sum of $25 was voted donated to the Soby Post cadet drum and bugle corps for the corps' services on Memorial Day.

The following bills were ordered paid: George M. Dicken, bond application, filing of bonds and delinquent tax notices, $2.50; county tax on borough property, $4.00; Philadelphia Electric Co., $62.29; Frank Forker, borough tax duplicate, $10; Ferd Reetz (two months' collection of rubbish), $24; Daniel Flum, labor, $7.20; American Legion drum and bugle corps, $25. Total, $131.46.

Morrisville Man Is Seriously Wounded

MORRISVILLE, June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. George Sines, Moreau street, have received word that their son, PFC A. Daniel Sines, had been seriously wounded in action in Italy.

In a letter received by his parents, Sines, who is 22, stated that he had been shot in the leg, causing fractures of both bones, and that he would be confined to the hospital for at least two months. He is serving with an infantry division. Another brother, Pvt. Robert Sines, serving with a medical unit, has been on active duty in the Pacific, and is at present stationed in Hawaii. Both boys are graduates of Morrisville high school.

LATE RESIDENT OF BRISTOL LEAVES ESTATE TO WIFE

Will is Filed in The Estate of Edward L. Kershaw

THE MORRIS WILL

Estate of Newtown Man is Valued at Over $15,000

DOYLESTOWN, June 7.—No letters testamentary were granted but the will was filed for record in the case of Edward L. Kershaw, Bristol, who died July 31, 1943, leaving an estate with no personal property and real estate, consisting of a house and lot at 117 Cedar St., Bristol, valued at $600. His wife, Sadie Kershaw, is named as sole beneficiary with the exception of one dollar left to each of his sons, William and Samuel Kershaw. The will was dated March 4, 1940.

Leaving his entire estate to his wife in a will made January 24, 1912, Peter H. Morris, Newtown, who died April 30, 1944, provided that when his children reached the age of twenty-one years, half of the residuary estate shall be divided, share and share alike among the surviving children and the other half shall go solely and exclusively to his wife, Lillian H. Morris. The estate is valued at $15,000 in personal property with no value on any real estate. Lillian H. Morris is named as executrix.

John Schwarz, Springfield township, who died April 27, 1944, named Jacob Bernhard executor in a will dated Oct. 12, 1931. The estate is valued at personal property, $2,200 and real estate at $1,900, the latter consisting of a house and lot in Philadelphia and a half interest in a farm in Springfield township. A son, Frederick Schwarz, is bequeathed the Philadelphia property including the furnishings and contents of the house, and another son, William Schwarz, is bequeathed $3,000. A housekeeper, Frieda Feuerstein, is given $300 provided she was still in the employ of the testator at his death. The residue of the estate is to be divided equally between the two sons.

In a will dated Nov. 2, 1942, Walter F. Hess, East Rockhill township, who died April 28, 1944, left his entire estate to his wife, Edith F. Hess, who was also named executrix. The personal property of the estate is valued at $500 and real estate, consisting of the property at 342 E. Upsal St., Germantown, Phila., at $3,000.

Axel Waldemar Sandstrom, Oxford, who died April 9, 1944, left personal property valued at $3,500 and named the People's National Bank and Trust Company of Langhorne as executors and trustee for his estate. Under the terms of the will dated May 26, 1934, and trust agreement, one dollar is left to a daughter, Mrs. Felter Wendell, and the same amount to a son, Arthur O. Sandstrom. The entire income from the trust fund is to go to his wife, Margaret H. Sandstrom, and at her death to be disposed of in accordance with the terms of her will.

Bible School Opens For Newtown Children

NEWTOWN, June 7.—The Newtown Vacation Bible School, which for several years has been conducted during the summer by the Protestant churches, opened Monday in the Methodist Church.

The school will be open for two weeks from nine a. m. to 11 a. m., during the week, excepting on Saturdays. Projects will be carried out in worship, Bible, music, missionary study, gospel, illustration, recreation and expressional work. The school is planned to give religious instruction to supplement that given by the churches through their Sunday schools, and is open to children from the ages three to 18.

Missionaries Will Be Heard in Service Here

Missionary night will be marked at the Happy Bible Hour on Thursday, in First Baptist Church, at seven o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Buck (Mrs. Buck being the former Miss Maude Hogeland of Scottsville Methodist Church), of the Un-evangelized Tribes Mission, who are on furlough from the Belgian Congo, will address the children. Mr. Buck has been on the mission field for 25 years, and Mrs. Buck for 14. They have been doing pioneer mission work, being the first white missionaries on this particular field.

'Trooper,' Former Mascot, Of State Police, Dies

The 29-year-old former mount and mascot of New Jersey State Police, Hammon town barracks, is dead.

"Trooper," as he was known to many, was the pet of Robert Scott, Bristol R. D., who had asked permission to give "Trooper" a place to rest during his few remaining years when it was learned he could no longer be retained by the New Jersey State Troopers.

The horse would beg for sugar by crossing his forelegs, and Robert informed officers at Hammon town barracks when he told them of "Trooper's" death: "I am glad that mother let me use my sugar stamp for lumps of sugar for 'Trooper'."

SPECIAL TRAINING GIVEN TO SCOUTERS

Annual Camporee Held At Camp Ockanickon During Week-End

AWARDS ARE MADE

The Bucks County Council Boy Scouts of America held their annual Camporee at the Boy Scout Camp, Camp Ockanickon, at Point Pleasant, over the past week-end beginning on Saturday at one p. m., and ending at eight p. m., Sunday.

The camporee, which in the words of Scouts and old time Scouters, was "the best yet" with special training in camping in the rugged country. The patrols were given assignments in a large wooded area. It was necessary for them to clear a camp site and set up their tents. They cooked supper and breakfast. Activities of the event included visiting other patrols in camp and a camp fire on Saturday night, in which all the boys had an opportunity to take part.

The Camporee was part of an Activity Program in the Council which began in March. The awards denoting an "A" rating for patrols will be given as follows: South Langhorne Wolf Patrol, Langhorne; Beaver Patrol, Quakertown; Lion Patrol, Quakertown; Eagle Patrol, Quakertown.

German Long-Range Guns Unleash Barrage

Dover, England.—Coincident with Nazi claims that Allied amphibious troops had attempted a new invasion of France across the narrow straits of Dover, German long-range guns in the Pas De Calais area unleashed a violent barrage on Dover and its vicinity today.

Approximately 40 rounds of heavy calibre Nazi shells fell into the Dover-Folkstone area while German broadcasts were reporting an Allied landing attempt across the most narrow part of the English coast. Between Dover and Calais on the northeastern coast of France the distance is only 21 miles.

3 Carrier Waves Make 50-Mile-Long Train

Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces.—Five giant waves of Allied air-borne troops streaked across the English Channel last night and early today and occupied important positions on the Cherbourg Peninsula.

Three troop carrier waves of the U. S. Ninth Air Force, forming a 50-mile long train, took off last night, an official communique revealed. These were followed by two other waves.

Landing at pre-designated positions, gliders carried into consolidated areas a steady stream of men, equipment and supplies.

Confirm Establishment of Allied Bridgeheads

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force.—Establishment of an Allied bridgehead five to six miles deep within France was confirmed at an American lighter station in England today coincident with German admissions to the same effect and mounting indications a major battle is now in progress.

The Allied holdings in northern France now stretch from five to six miles inshore from Valognes on the Cherbourg peninsula to Trouville on the Seine Estuary. It was disclosed.

Small Building, Hunter Plant, Harmed by Fire

One of the small buildings at the Bath Road plant of Hunter Manufacturing Corp. was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon.

Damage to the end of the one-story frame structure, which measures about 20x20 feet, is small, state officials of the firm. Some of the equipment in the building also caught fire. Workmen in the building at the time reached safety. Cause of the blaze is not definitely known, state fire representatives.

Bristol Consolidated Fire Co.; Goodwill Co., No. 3; American Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2; and Bristol Volunteer Co., No. 6, were summoned. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

LOCAL DANCER IS TO BECOME ROCKETTE

Marie Claire Sorenson Joins Well-Known New York Dance Corps

IS B. H. S. GRADUATE

Marie Claire Sorenson, frequently seen in this section in specialty dance numbers, has been accepted as a member of the "Rockettes," famed dance group which performs daily in the Radio City Music Hall, New York, N. Y.

Miss Sorenson, who received her diploma at Bristol high school commencement exercises last evening, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Sorenson, Newport Road, West Bristol.

The young woman, whose hobby for years has been dancing, has studied the terpsichorean art under instructors in Philadelphia and Trenton, and has had some instruction from New York teachers.

She has danced in a number of army and navy hospitals; also at service clubs and canteens, including the Stage Door Canteen.

The blonde, blue-eyed dancer is five feet, six and one-half inches tall. She and her mother plan to reside in New York City.

Tryouts were given Miss Sorenson at Radio City recently, and she will return there on June 22nd. Following approximately a week of rehearsal she will enter the "Rockettes" line, and dance before thousands daily.

The young woman who is proficient in tap, toe, Spanish and other types of dancing, is partial to Russian character work she states.

While at Bristol high she followed the commercial course.

To Display Red Cross Mobile Headquarters

A new mobile unit to serve as Red Cross field headquarters during disaster, has been secured and completely equipped. Joseph R. Rollins, Red Cross disaster chairman, announced at the recent meeting of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Red Cross Chapter.

The new unit will be on display tomorrow in front of the Elks Home, Radcliffe street, between one and two p. m. It will be on display on Mill street between two and three p. m. From here it will be taken to the Fleetwings and Rohm & Haas plants.

Equipped with telephones, short-wave receiver and transmitter, and long-wave radio, loud speaker, flood lights, desks, interview windows and disaster supplies, the unit is literally an office on wheels. It is now available for any major disaster and can be dispatched in a matter of minutes to any point in the five-county area of this Red Cross chapter.

BRISTOL HIGH HAS 91 GRADUATES IN THE CLASS OF '44

Grundy Medal Presented To Katherine Hemmeyer; Average of 93.224

NUMEROUS AWARDS

Entire Program Given By Graduates — "Youth Accepts Challenge"

The entire program of the commencement exercises for the 61st class of Bristol high school was presented last evening by members of the class of 1944. Divided into two parts, the program so in keeping with the times was staged in the Grand Theatre before a company of a thousand relatives and friends.

"Youth Accepts the Challenge" was the title of the opening section, while the second part, "Wherever they May Be" was in the form of a tribute to those serving their country on the battlefield and on the homefront.

The musical units of the high school, both the A Capella choir and the band, played a large part in the success of the evening program; and the climax was the presentation of numerous awards and diplomas.

Winner of the Grundy medal this year is Miss Katherine Hemmeyer, whose average for the high school course was 93.224, as announced by Earl McEuen, president of Bristol board of school directors, who presented the medal. The board president also announced the averages of the second honor student, Ruth Ann Watson, 92.862; and of the third honor student, Charles H. Peet, 92.654.

The graduates, 91 in number, and wearing gray caps and gowns, had seats of honor on the theatre stage. A huge American flag, and over their heads in large letters was the word "Service." Baskets of flowers were placed near the footlights.

The processional "The Coronation March" was by the high school band; the invocation being delivered by the Rev. I. L. Clark, pastor of First Baptist Church. During the first part of the program, "Youth Accepts the Challenge," the following student numbers were given: Greetings, Alfred Iannucci, president of the graduating class; "The Class of 1944 Accepts the Challenge," Edward Marcella; "Preserving Our American Heritage," Calvin Solia and Ruth Watson; "The Navy Hymn" and "Land of Hope and Glory," A Cappella Choir; "Facing Our Country's Home Problems," Wilbur Stetson and Russell Ginter; "Anticipating Tomorrow's World," Katherine Hemmeyer and Charles Peet. The reading of the essay which won for him the Mothers' Association prize was by Harold W. Stetson, the title being "Why Are We Americans Different?" A band selection, "The American Patrol" followed.

In the skit entitled "Wherever They May Be" the commentators were Walter Lane and Geraldine Fenton. At the outset it was shown how at Bristol high school new courses have been instituted and others changed preparatory to meeting the problems facing the young folks in the immediate future. The changes necessitated by the present global war were mentioned, and the many ways in which Bristol high school students, and students and adults everywhere

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

KEESLER FIELD, Biloxi, Miss., June 7.—Pvt. John M. Lucisano was graduated yesterday from the Liberator bomber mechanics school here and is now ready for line duty or further training under the Army Air Forces Training Command. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Lucisano, Tullytown, Pa.

Now qualified as a B-24 mechanic, Pvt. Lucisano will join the ranks of the green-clad army maintaining the big four-engine aircraft, be sent to a factory school for further specialized training, or go to one of the training command's aerial gunnery schools.

The course of approximately 17 weeks here taught him the intricacies of electrical and hydraulic systems, propellers, instruments, fuel systems, engine operation and aircraft inspection. For eight days before graduating, he applied what he had learned under simulated battle conditions at "Fort Liberator," a branch of the airplane mechanics school.

CANNOT STAND WALLACE

Resentment in the Democratic
convention of 1940 aroused by President Roosevelt's insistence
upon the nomination of Henry Wallace for Vice-President is
widely remembered. Southerners,
who had one of their own men
groomed for the place, all but
rose in their seats and howled.

Now Southerners are doing all
they can to prevent a recurrence
of that incident. They are determined to eliminate Wallace before the convention opens. That
explains much of what has happened in Texas and South Carolina and of what may happen in
other states.

Democratic leaders have conferred with the President in re-
cent weeks in regard to Wallace.
Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have
asked whether they can agree
upon a man who has Presidential
appearance and ability, who will
attract votes, who is not vulnerable to Republican attack and who
is acceptable to the President.
That last order probably would
be the hardest to fill.

Democrats have under consideration Speaker Rayburn, Senators Barkley, Byrd, Lucas and Truman; Secretary Hull, Under-
secretary Stettinius, James
Byrnes and James Farley, Governors Kerr of Oklahoma and
Broughton of North Carolina and
General Marshall, John Winant,
ambassador to Great Britain, is a possibility. He is nominally a Republican.

Practical politicians have told
the President that renomination
of Mr. Wallace will result in a
minimum loss of 2,000,000 votes
next November. But a serious
complication is the CIO, whose
Political Action Committee is expected to be powerful in mar-
shalling the left-wing vote. The CIO is reported virtually to have
demanded that Wallace be re-
nominated. If the South can shed
its slavish partisanship, the po-
tentialities of dissension in the
New Deal party will be immense.

VITAMIZED BASEBALL

To make baseball games zip-
pier, a planned program of distributing ball players with multiple vita-
minus—a formula similar to that
used by the Army—has been
undertaken by eight major league
teams.

To make the players act like Flying Fortresses fueled with
high octane gasoline, 85,000 of
the pellets will be consumed the
remainder of the season by players in both major leagues.

The step follows the successful
experiment by Sam Breadon, who
has been feeding his Saint Louis
Cards multiple vitamins since 1942 and which may have ac-
counted for the Cards' pennant
winning form in 1942 and 1943.
Or it is possible that the eight
team managers reached the conclusion that if the Army, which
is winning one engagement after
another, including double-head-
ers, is winning out millions of
pep-up tablets, there must be
something in the pills that ambitious baseball players need.

The report that Montgomery
Ward will dedicate its next catalog to the fourth term is probably
a canard.

Mr. Roosevelt as this reviewer
hardly realized what a great man
has been President since March 4, 1933." He declares the book to
be "essentially a British plea to
continue him in office until the
war is ended."

IF THIS is so, it is singularly
inept. For, the average American's
reaction to the superlatives of this
volume would hardly be favorable.
In fact, it has been suggested that
it might pay the Republicans to
circulate it as widely as possible.
Aside from the fact that as a child
and young man, Mr. MacKenzie,

inconsistently, makes his hero out
of a dreadful little prig, there are
many purple passages that might
be used with effect. For example,
there is the touching little anecdote which Mr. MacKenzie offers of Mr. Roosevelt at the age of 5.
One day, he writes, the child appeared sunk in melancholy from
which his parents could not arouse
him. At last his mother, a little
alarmed, asked the boy whether
he was unhappy. He did not, says
Mr. MacKenzie, answer at once,
and then said very seriously, "Yes,
I am unhappy." When his mother
asked him why, says Mr. Mac-Kenzie, he was silent for a moment or two, and "then with a
curious little gesture that combined entreaty with a suggestion

Thanks to the Improved Chi-Ches-Ters Pills—and the girls
at the plant who told me about them—I no longer suffer on "difficult days". Chi-Ches-Ters are so effective for simple periodic distress because they're more than just a painkiller. One of their ingredients is intended to help relax cramps and tensions that cause pain.
And there's an added iron factor tending to help build up your blood. Be sure to try them
for "those days". Ask your druggist tomorrow
for the 50¢ size, and follow directions as given on the package.

of impatience, he clasped his tiny
hands in front of him and ex-
claimed, "Oh, for freedom!" Mr.
MacKenzie is convinced that this
was, indeed, a portentous utter-
ance and suggests that it was a
reflection of the Declaration of Independence and a forerunner of
the Four Freedoms.

THIS IS a small incident in a great
career, but it is typical of the book
and illustrates the way Mr. Mac-Kenzie has handled his subject.
From that anecdote on he grows in
virtue, wisdom, character, courage,
until one is literally appalled at his
perfection, and even ardent admirers like Mr. Schmittgessner are astonished. We are told of his "mar-
moral serenity" and his "Olympian

detachment." He is favorably compared to Wilson and Churchill. The MacKenzie estimate of his services to mankind is best described
in this passage: "If at this moment
democracy can still be acclaimed as
the political ideal of humanity, it is
due supremely to Franklin D.
Roosevelt, who has illuminated the
ancient word with his own vitality
so that it glows again as warmly
upon his lips as upon the lips of Pericles in the market place of Athens two thousand four hundred
years ago."

IT IS pretty hard to beat that as a
tribute, but Mr. MacKenzie tries
in his concluding paragraph. In
this he declares that "The Vatican
trusts Roosevelt, Jewry trusts

Roosevelt, tormented France trusts
Roosevelt, Greece—glorious in her
chains—trusts Roosevelt, martyred
Poland trusts Roosevelt, dogged
Holland trusts Roosevelt; China,
risen from a sleep of centuries,
trusts Roosevelt; Latin America, so
long a suspicious neighbor, trusts
Roosevelt. Even the poor, poisoned
heart of Italy beats feebly for Roosevelt. And we of the British Empire trust the man who, speaking in the common tongue, first
gave us the assurance of victory
when adamant Churchill had
pledged our honor to the proud
defiance he knew we desired to
offer." There is no doubt about
it—this is tops. Mr. Roosevelt at
last has found a biographer who
really appreciates him.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

"This is the operator at 1216, Mr. Martinelli's apartment just put through a call to Columbus 9-0203." "Is that all?" asked Argus Steele. "Yes, sir."

"Did you overhear any of the conversation?"

"I heard a party ask to speak to Mr. Martinelli and some one said he wasn't there. Then I had to put through a call for another party and they'd hung up."

"Thanks," said Argus. "Let me know if there are any more calls, incoming or outgoing, and try to get all the conversation."

"Yes, sir."

Argus waited nearly thirty minutes but there were no further calls. He put on his hat and coat, gave an order to Butch to call him at the Twinkle Club if Ellen should phone, and left.

The Twinkle Club was just east of Broadway. Life size pictures of semi-famous entertainers were framed above the entrance. As the doorman greeted him he heard the strains of a rumba orchestra coming from the groto at the foot of the stairs. A blonde in a white fox evening wrap was waiting for him.

"Hello, Mabel!" Argus smiled as he checked his hat and coat. "You're right on time!" Mabel beamed.

"I hope Dancer won't mind my doing things my own way," she said. A headwaiter led them to a floor table. Heads turned to watch them as they passed.

"You look like a million!" Argus declared when they were seated.

"Yeah? And just as hard to make," pouted Mabel. The detective tried to smile and look as if he hadn't heard the bromide before. He helped her out of her wrap. She was wearing a white satin evening gown that set off her curvaceous figure to good advantage. Argus ordered a couple of cocktails.

"Did you give Dancer my message?" he asked casually.

"Sure," said Mabel. "He said as soon as you turned over the stuff to me, he'd let your girl friend go."

"I'll hand it over when Miss Curtis is returned to her home. Not before."

"That may take a little time."

"That's all right with me so long as he does it. You haven't any other plans for the evening, have you?"

"No—but—" Mabel bit her lip.

"But what?" Argus asked. "Are you trying to tell me you didn't phone Dancer?"

Mabel looked startled. "I phoned him all right."

"But he wasn't there. Is that it?"

"You win. He wasn't there. I told Ace—that's one of his men—what you said."

"And—" The cocktails arrived.

"He said he'd tell him. I gotta call him back in an hour."

"Don't you know where you can reach Dancer more directly and give him the message?"

"No," Mabel frowned. "He never tells me nothin'."

"But you knew that Dancer used to see Sylvia Verne."

"He told me it was business, but not what kind," said Mabel.

"You know," pressed Argus, "Dancer's really going to get into trouble if he continues to pull stunts like this." The detective beckoned to a waiter. "Bring a phone over to this table," he said. The waiter went off.

"What's the big idea?" Mabel asked.

"Great invention being able to phone from your table without moving, isn't it? I thought you might call Ace back and hurry him up a bit. In case you've forgotten the number, I have it right here." He fished in his pocket and pulled out a slip of paper. "It's Columbus 9-0203."

Mabel smiled in admiration. "For a dick," she declared, "you ain't so dumb."

"Coming from you, my dear, I consider that a great compliment," Argus drained his cocktail. The waiter returned with the phone and plugged it into a wall-socket on a nearby pillar. Argus handed the instrument to Mabel. She looked at him curiously and dialled the number.

The detective ordered another round of cocktails, dinner and a bottle of champagne. He smoked as Mabel talked over the phone.

"I'll call you back," she said finally and hung up. "Ace can't reach Dancer just now," she told Argus. "But he's supposed to call Ace in half an hour."

"Good! We'll keep the phone right here," Argus set it to one side. "Who thought up this bright idea of kidnapping my girl? You said it wasn't Dancer's or yours."

"Listen, pal, I don't tell everything I know."

"Oh, I see. It couldn't have been Mr. William Carstairs, could it?"

"I said I ain't talking. I wouldn't of even told you I knew about your girl, except that I don't like a snitch, see?"

In an hour they had finished dinner and a quart of champagne. Argus ordered another. Mabel made another phone call. She was beginning to unlimber.

"Ace says Dancer says okay," she told Argus. "He'll tell the boys to let her go but she won't be home for a couple of hours. He says I gotta stick with you—or else!"

"Two hours!" Argus consulted his watch. "That'll be 11:30."

Mabel was not a brilliant conversationalist and Argus couldn't dance because of his wounded shoulder, so about the only way to pass the time was to drink. They had squeezed the last drop from the third quart of champagne when Mabel got the hicoughs and an urge to sing.

"I used to be on the stage," she said. "I gotta good soprano voice."

"I'll bet you have!" beamed Argus.

Mabel demonstrated with a few bars. People turned to stare. Detective Steele glanced at his watch again. It was just 11:30. He called Ellen's home but she had not returned. He gathered up Mabel's wrap.

"Let's go to my place," he said. "I've got a piano and you can sing for me. I don't think we're appreciated here."

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Heavenly Father, write Thy new, best name of love upon our hearts this day. Help us to remember Jesus Christ. During the busy hours bring Him often to our thoughts. When the mind is free from some set task may it revert to Him, as the needle turns to the pole. Keep us from wounding Him in thought or word. Make our communion with Him sweet. Give us of His strength. His wisdom, His wondrousness. Forgive the professions which have been but empty words, and cause us to reveal our faith by our deeds. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

VOLTZ NINE GAINS AN EASY VICTORY OVER BURLINGTON

Alcoa Gets 3 Runs From Black, But Damage Ends There

GAME ENDS AT 15 TO 4

Winners Score Markers In 2nd, 3rd and 4th Innings

EDGELEY, June 7—The Alcoa team got to Howard Black for three runs in the first inning but that was the extent of the damage done to the veteran twirler as the Voltz-Axco team scored an easy 15-4 victory over the Burlington nine last evening on the Edgely diamond.

The winners scored all their markers in the second, third and fourth innings as the Alcoa team went completely to pieces. The Burlington team was charged with nine errors.

"Bill" Leigh, of the winners, hit a home run in the fourth with one on base. He also had a double in the second.

SINGLE BY WELSH GAINS CLOSE TILT

TRENTON INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE Schedule for Tonight CASE PACKERS - ROHM & HAAS (Maple Beach field)

TRENTON, June 7—A single by "Billy" Welsh in the eighth inning gave the American Steel nine a close 4-2 triumph over the Rohm & Haas batters on Wetzel field in a Trenton Industrial League contest.

To begin that fatal eighth, Johnny McGowan singled and Don Henry walked. Both advanced on a sacrifice and came home on Welsh's hit.

"Eddie" Sullivan did the twirling for the chemical mixers and held the Steelers to seven hits. He was in quite a bit of difficulty in the sixth when the Steelers loaded the bags with no one out. But Eddie promptly settled this by fanning the side.

Norman Jones pitched for the winners and held Rohm & Haas to four hits. Two of these, by Hetherington and Dick and a hit batsman, gave the Bristol team its pair of runs in the sixth.

DIAMOND FAILS TO HOLD 5-RUN LEAD

Failing to hold a five-run lead, the Diamond team lost to the Eadenhausen nine last evening on the Rohm and Haas field. Final score was 10-7. Six runs in the final frame did the trick for the Baddies.

The Diamond boys massed a 7-2 lead by scoring six times in the second and with Danny Keegan on the hill it appeared to be another Diamond triumph but the Cornwells boys scored twice on Danny in the fourth on a walk, a double by Bowman and an error.

In the sixth, the Mill Streeters went completely to pieces and Manager Diamanti had to call in Wolvin to finish the game. Five hits and two walks did the trick for the iron-workers and mixed in the hits were a double by Trapp and a triple from the bat of Paul.

have met the challenge of new and multiple duties brought about by a global struggle. That 60 per cent of high school students are working on farms, in war industries and in other business after study periods was one point stressed. That action on the military front must be supported by action on the home front, and that students are working beside their parents in a common national effort the audience was also informed. Tribute was paid to the American man in service, with incidental music provided by the choir and band. As a salute to those in the various branches of the service the marines, air corps, navy and army songs were played, uniformed band members then making their way to the stage with one bearing the American flag. The singing of the national anthem was followed by the flag salute led by a member of the class who is now in the U. S. Navy, Earl Vetter. Other speakers were: John Capriotti, James Costantini, Jane Brennan, Eugene Cordisco, Samuel Gesualdi, Marie Yaniro, Patricia Henry, Jean Townend, Jacqueline Lowrie, Robert Conklin, Catherine Dugan, Mae Bernard, Glenn Felix, Alfred Iannucci, Noma Albright, Irene Chrusciel, Marie Cherubini, Virginia Napoli, Susan Maska, Mary Antonelli, Winifred Muerer, Olive Johnson, Betty Lynch, Evelyn Rotondo.

The first gift announced on behalf of the class. To the school the class donated the sum of $100 (originally received for library books) plus the sum of approximately $50, class treasury balance, the money to be placed in the athletic field fund. Alfred Iannucci announced the gift, with acceptance by Mr. McEuen.

Other awards are as follows: Prizes awarded by the Mothers' Association, and announced by the president, Mrs. Jacob Townsend:

$5 is awarded to the pupil in the seventh grade judged the best penman by three commercial teachers of the high school, winner James Di Lissio; $5 to the girl in any class of the high school showing not only ability in athletics, but one who has proven herself a true sport, (participation in two major sports for girls, basketball and hockey suggested), winner Mabel Heath; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in mathematics, winner Ruth Watson; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in the general business course, winner Marie Claire Sorenson; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in the secretarial course, winner Katherine Hemminger; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in Latin, winner Ruth Watson.

Heavy Fighting Experienced At Certain Sectors

least some of the areas concerned were "freed of direct German fire," probably by Allied air attack or naval bombardment.

Although no naval casualties were suffered in the initial invasion thrusts, headquarters disclosed, some small craft were swamped.

This was due to unfavorable weather which "left considerable to be desired" in furtherance of the initial Allied success. Weather conditions were officially regarded as "better" this morning, with higher clouds aiding air support.

At 11 a. m. British time, however, there was a blustering wind over the Straits of Dover and occasional storm gusts, with waves in mid-channel about three feet high.

Conditions in the channel, however, had little or no effect upon myriads of Allied bombing, fighter and supply planes which swept over and back in shuttle attack throughout the day to bolster the invasion front and deal punishing new blows to Nazi defenses in France and Germany.

Communiqué No. 3 from the supreme headquarters of allied armies which already have penetrated the main and secondary German defense lines in successful initiation of the greatest offensive in history said:

"Allied forces continued landings on the northern coast of France throughout yesterday and satisfactory progress was made.

"Rangers and commandos formed part of the assaulting forces.

Fresh Landings, Airborne Troops, Made in The Night

communiqué made it clear that the invaders were obtaining adequate aerial cover.

"From dawn until dusk," the bulletin said, "a vast Allied fighter force maintained a vigil over our shipping and over the assault area. This air cover was completely successful."

A dispatch from neutral Sweden said the Germans reported that the United Nations troops continued to land reinforcements all through the night, especially around the Caen area where airborne units already were reported in action.

"Very heavy fighting" has been experience by Allied troops combatting the Germans in some parts of northern France, official information said. However, unfavorable weather which yesterday "had left considerable to be desired" was said to have become better this morning.

Mr. White, chairman of the disaster relief program, stated that his service had recently acquired a mobile headquarters unit for disaster relief. The unit, equipped to serve as field headquarters, communication center, and rallying point for all Red Cross activities at the scene of a disaster, will be routed through lower Bensalem tomorrow. The times of the displays are: Andalusia postoffice, 10.45 to 11 a. m.; Cornwells Heights postoffice, 11.15 to 11.30; Newport Fire Co. station, 11.40 to 12 noon.

Mr. White also announced that 300 cans of food had been sent to Christ Home, Warminster, leaving a quantity on hand for home service use, in accordance with the wishes of the board expressed at a previous meeting.

The next board meeting will be held in September, but activities of the branch will be carried on as usual, Mrs. Perkins assured.

ALLIED FORCES, STRONGLY REINFORCED, PROGRESSING SATISFACTORILY AFTER PENETRATING GERMAN PRIMARY AND SECONDARY DEFENSES ALONG THE NORMANDY COAST

FRESH LANDINGS, AIRBORNE TROOPS, MADE IN THE NIGHT

By International News Service
American and British forces in northern France, strongly reinforced by "continued" landings, have made "satisfactory progress" after penetrating German primary and secondary defenses along the Normandy coast, Supreme Allied Headquarters revealed today.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told of the favorable progress, in his third communique since the liberating invaders stormed ashore under cover of a powerful air and naval barrage as other airborne troops landed far to the rear of enemy lines.

The communique revealed also that fresh landings of airborne troops were made during the night to reinforce the Allied beachhead. It added:

"Allied forces continued landing on the northern coast of France throughout yesterday. Satisfactory progress was made."

Those Allied invasion forces, of which American Rangers and Commandos formed an important part, still were receiving the support of huge naval and air armadas. After initial attempts to interfere with the landings proved costly to lighter Nazi warships, no more such attempts to hamper the seaborne landings were made.

Whatever German coastal batteries that were still able to operate after the terrific sea and air pounding dealt them yesterday were being bombarded constantly by Allied warships, Gen. Eisenhower added.

Four successive times, Allied 4-motored bombers blasted German railway communications and bridges in the general battle area, obviously to disrupt Nazi attempts to bolster their anti-invasion forces.

The enemy, on the other hand, increased aerial activities, German warplanes struck both at the beachhead forces and upon the Allied bombing formations boring inland. At least 30 Nazi planes were shot down.

Despite the increased enemy air action, Gen. Eisenhower's latest

Hulmeville Council Names Webb To Post

HULMEVILLE, June 7—Hulmeville borough council, in session on Monday evening in the town hall, named Reginald Webb as deputy tax collector, following consideration of the delinquent tax problem.

Councilmen assembled were President Norman Davis, Reginald Webb, Walter Fry, Samuel J. Illick, George Bilger and A. E. A. Bronson. The burgess, Leon R. Comly, was also in attendance.

The highway committee reported on street conditions. The council hopes to make arrangements with a repairman from a neighboring borough to make some necessary repairs on Green street and some other thoroughfares, the borough to provide material and labor assistance.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $473.99 in the treasury.

The secretary, Frank Forker, was instructed to write the Badenhausen Corp. at Cornwells Heights, acknowledging the gift of a flag pole for use in the borough's memorial park site. The pole will be placed this evening. Members of the park committee have also been notified to meet with the council committee at the park site at seven o'clock tonight.

Council has warned residents to halt the practice of disposing of waste material in the body of water known as the "beaver," such practice being claimed a menace to health.

The sum of $25 was voted donated to the Soby Post cadet drum and bugle corps for the corps' services on Memorial Day.

The following bills were ordered paid: George M. Dicken, bond application, filing of bonds and delinquent tax notices, $2.50; county tax on borough property, $4.40; Philadelphia Electric Co., $62.29; Frank Forker, borough tax duplicate, $10; Ferd Reetz (two months' collection of rubbish), $24; Daniel Plum, labor, $7.20; American Legion drum and bugle corps, $25. Total, $131.46.

Will is Filed in The Estate of Edward L. Kershaw

Estate of Newtown Man is Valued at Over $15,000

DOYLESTOWN, June 7—No letters testamentary were granted but the will was filed for record in the case of Edward L. Kershaw, Bristol, who died July 31, 1943, leaving an estate with no personal property and real estate, consisting of a house and lot at 117 Cedar St., Bristol, valued at $600. His wife, Sadie Kershaw, is named as sole beneficiary with the exception of one dollar left to each of his sons, William and Samuel Kershaw. The will was dated March 4, 1940.

Leaving his entire estate to his wife in a will made January 24, 1912, Peter H. Morris, Newtown, who died April 30, 1944, provided that when his children reached the age of twenty-one years, half of the residuary estate shall be divided, share and share alike among the surviving children and the other half shall go solely and exclusively to his wife, Lillian H. Morris. The estate is valued at $15,000 in personal property with no value on any real estate. Lillian H. Morris is named as executrix.

John Schwarz, Springfield township, who died April 27, 1944, named Jacob Bernhard executor in a will dated Oct. 12, 1931. The estate is valued at, personal property, $2,200 and real estate at $1,900, the latter consisting of a house and lot in Philadelphia and a half interest in a farm in Springfield township. A son, Frederick Schwarz, is bequeathed the Philadelphia property including the furnishings and contents of the house, and another son, William Schwarz, is bequeathed $3,000. A housekeeper, Frieda Feuerstein, is given $300 provided she was still in the employ of the testator at his death. The residue of the estate is to be divided equally between the two sons.

In a will dated Nov. 2, 1942, Walter F. Hess, East Rockhill township, who died April 28, 1944, left his entire estate to his wife, Edith F. Hess, who was also named executrix. The personal property of the estate is valued at $500 and real estate, consisting of the property at 342 E. Upsal St., Germantown, Phila., at $3,000.

Axel Waldemar Sandstrom, Oxford, who died April 9, 1944, left personal property valued at $3,500 and named the People's National Bank and Trust Company of Langhorne as executors and trustee for his estate. Under the terms of the will dated May 26, 1934, and trust agreement, one dollar is left to a daughter, Mrs. Felter Wendell, and the same amount to a son, Arthur O. Sandstrom. The entire income from the trust fund is to go to his wife, Margaret H. Sandstrom, and at her death to be disposed of in accordance with the terms of her will.

Supper Follows Baptism At Cornwells Heights

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 7—Donald Robert Torpey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Torpey, was baptized on Sunday in St. Charles' R. C. Church. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Enright, Croydon, were sponsors. After the baptism, Mr. and Mrs. Torpey held a reception at their home.

A buffet supper was partaken of by Mr. and Mrs. John Gorman and children, Bridesburg; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chambers, Mrs. Bertha Kreutzler, Midway; Mrs. Rose McMonagle, Mr. and Mrs. B. Ernest, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phibbs, Fred Pfirman, Croydon; Henry Adis, Woodburn; Mr. and Mrs. William Miley, Fergusonville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Torpey, Mr. and Mrs. John Torpey, Mrs. Edith Collins, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Oppman, Thomas Dunbar, Edgely; Mrs. Samuel Parker and children, Mrs. M. Coburn, Mr. and Mrs. George Bender and children, Mr. and Mrs. George Trapp. The baby received gifts.

PUPILS GET PRIZES

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 7—Two pupils of the fifth grade, Bensalem Township school, were awarded prizes by their teacher, Miss Sarah Myers, on Monday, for taking tin cans to school. John Lockard, who gathered 365 cans over a period of four months, was the recipient of a model airplane. Myrna Jean VanSant received a game for taking 136 cans, the largest amount during May.

Bible School Opens For Newtown Children

NEWTOWN, June 7—The Newtown Vacation Bible School, which for several years has been conducted during the summer by the Protestant churches, opened Monday in the Methodist Church.

The school will be open for two weeks from nine a. m. to 11 a. m., during the week, excepting on Saturdays. Projects will be carried out in worship, Bible, music, missionary study, gospel, illustration, recreation and expressional work.

The school is planned to give religious instruction to supplement that given by the churches through their Sunday schools, and is open to children from the ages three to 18.

Missionaries Will Be Heard in Service Here

Missionary night will be marked at the Happy Bible Hour on Thursday, in First Baptist Church, at seven o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Buck (Mrs. Buck being the former Miss Maude Hogeland of Scottsville Methodist Church), of the Un-evangelized Tribes Mission, who are on furlough from the Belgian Congo, will address the children. Mr. Buck has been on the mission field for 25 years, and Mrs. Buck for 14. They have been doing pioneer mission work, being the first white missionaries on this particular field.

'Trooper,' Former Mascot, Of State Police, Dies

The 29-year-old former mount and mascot of New Jersey State Police, Hammonton barracks, is dead.

"Trooper," as he was known to many, was the pet of Robert Scott, Bristol R. D., who had asked permission to give "Trooper" a place to rest during his few remaining years when it was learned he could no longer be retained by the New Jersey State Troopers.

By crossing his forelegs, and Robert informed officers at Hammonton barracks when he told them of "Trooper's" death: "I am glad that mother let me use my sugar stamp for lumps of sugar for 'Trooper.'"

SPECIAL TRAINING GIVEN TO SCOUTERS

Annual Camporee Held At Camp Ockanickon During Week-End

AWARDS ARE MADE

The Bucks County Council Boy Scouts of America held their annual Camporee at the Boy Scout Camp, Camp Ockanickon, at Point Pleasant, over the past week-end beginning on Saturday at one p. m. and ending at eight p. m., Sunday. The camporee, which in the words of Scouts and old time Scouters, was "the best yet" with special training in camping in the rugged country. The patrols were given assignments in a large wooded area. It was necessary for them to clear a camp site and set up their tents. They cooked supper and breakfast. Activities of the event included visiting other patrols in camp and a camp fire on Saturday night, in which all the boys had an opportunity to take part. The Camporee was part of an Activity Program in the Council which began in March. The awards denoting an "A" rating for patrols will be given as follows: South Langhorne Wolf Patrol, Langhorne Beaver Patrol, Quakertown Lion Patrol, Quakertown Eagle Patrol. Continued on Page Four

Small Building, Hunter Plant, Harmed by Fire

Damage to the end of the one-story frame structure, which measures about 20x20 feet, is small, state officials of the firm. Some of the equipment in the building also caught fire. Workmen in the building at the time reached safety. Cause of the blaze is not definitely known, state firm representatives.

Bristol Consolidated Fire Co., Goodwill Co., No. 3; American Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2; and Bristol Volunteer Co., No. 6, were summoned. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

LOCAL DANCER IS TO BECOME ROCKETTE

Marie Claire Sorenson Joins Well-Known New York Dance Corps

Marie Claire Sorenson, frequently seen in this section in specialty dance numbers, has been accepted as a member of the "Rockettes," famed dance group which performs daily in the Radio City Music Hall, New York, N. Y.

Miss Sorenson, who received her diploma at Bristol high school commencement exercises last evening, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Sorenson, Newport Road, West Bristol.

The young woman, whose hobby for years has been dancing, has studied the terpsichorean art under instructors in Philadelphia and Trenton, and has had some instruction from New York teachers.

She has danced in a number of army and navy hospitals; also at service clubs and canteens, including the Stage Door Canteen.

The blonde, blue-eyed dancer is five feet, six and one-half inches tall. She and her mother plan to reside in New York City.

Travours were given Miss Sorenson at Radio City recently, and she will return there on June 22nd. Following approximately a week of rehearsal she will enter the "Rockette" line, and dance before thousands daily.

The young woman who is proficient in tap, toe, Spanish and other types of dancing, is partial to Russian character work she states.

While at Bristol high she followed the commercial course.

To Display Red Cross Mobile Headquarters

A new mobile unit to serve as Red Cross field headquarters during disaster, has been secured and completely equipped. Joseph R. Rollins, Red Cross disaster chairman, announced at the recent meeting of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Red Cross Chapter.

The new unit will be on display tomorrow in front of the Elks Home, Radcliffe street, between one and two p. m. It will be on display on Mill street between two and three p. m. From here it will be taken to the Fleetwings and Rohm & Haas plants.

Equipped with telephones, short-wave receiver and transmitter, and long-wave radio, loud speaker, flood lights, desks, interview windows and disaster supplies, the unit is literally an office on wheels. It is now available for any major disaster and can be dispatched in a matter of minutes to any point in the five-county area of this Red Cross chapter.

BRISTOL HIGH HAS 91 GRADUATES IN THE CLASS OF '44

Grundy Medal Presented To Katherine Hemmeter; Average of 93.224

NUMEROUS AWARDS

Entire Program Given By Graduates — "Youth Accepts Challenge"

The entire program of the commencement exercises for the 61st class of Bristol high school was presented last evening by members of the class of 1944. Divided into two parts the program was in keeping with the times was staged in the Grand Theatre before a company of a thousand relatives and friends. "Youth Accepts the Challenge" was the title of the opening section, while the second part, "Wherever they May Be" was in the form of a tribute to those serving their country on the battlefield and on the homefront.

The musical units of the high school, both the A Capella choir and the band, played a large part in the success of the evening program; and the climax was the presentation of numerous awards and diplomas.

Winner of the Grundy medal this year is Miss Katherine Hemmeter, whose average for the high school course was 93.224, as announced by Earl McEuen, president of Bristol board of school directors, who presented the medal. The board president also announced the averages of the second honor student, Ruth Ann Watson, 92.862; and of the third honor student, Charles H. Peet, 92.654.

The graduates, 91 in number, and wearing gray caps and gowns, had seats of honor on the theatre stage. High above them and to the rear was a huge American flag, and over their heads in large letters was the word "Service." Baskets of flowers were placed near the footlights.

The processional "The Coronation March" was by the high school band; the invocation being delivered by the Rev. L. L. Clark, pastor of First Baptist Church. During the first part of the program, "Youth Accepts the Challenge," the following student numbers were given: Greetings, Alfred Lannucci, president of the graduating class; "The Class of 1944 Accepts the Challenge," Edward Marcella; "Preserving Our American Heritage," Calvin Solla and Ruth Watson; "The Navy Hymn" and "Land of Hope and Glory," A Capella Choir; "Facing Our Country's Home Problems," Wilbur Stetson and Russell Glinther; "Anticipating Tomorrow's World," Katherine Hemmeter and Charles Peet. The reading of the essay which won for him the Mothers' Association prize was by Harold W. Stetson, the title being "Why Are We Americans Different?" A band selection, "The American Patrol" followed.

In the skit entitled "Wherever They May Be" the commentators were Walter Lane and Geraldine Fenton. At the outset it was shown how at Bristol high school new courses have been instituted and others changed preparatory to meeting the problems facing the young folks in the immediate future. The changes necessitated by the present global war were mentioned, and the many ways in which Bristol high school students, and students and adults everywhere

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

KEESLER FIELD, Biloxi, Miss. June 7—Pvt. John M. Lucisano was graduated yesterday from the Liberator bomber mechanics school here and is now ready for line duty or further training under the Army Air Forces Training Command. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Lucisano, Tullytown, Pa.

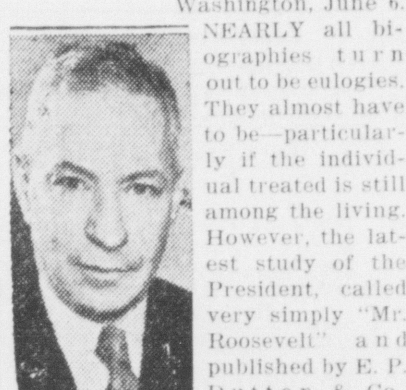

Now qualified as a B-24 mechanic, Pvt. Lucisano will join the ranks of the green-clad army maintaining the big four-engine aircraft, be sent to a factory school for further specialized training, or go to one of the training command's aerial gunnery schools.

The course of approximately 17 weeks here taught him the intricacies of electrical and hydraulic systems, propellers, instruments, fuel systems, engine operation and aircraft inspection. For eight days before graduating, he applied what he had learned under simulated battle conditions at "Port Liberator," a branch of the airplane mechanics school.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Super Eulogy

Washington, June 6. NEARLY all biographies turn out to be eulogies. They almost have to be—particularly if the individual treated is still among the living. However, the latest study of the President, called very simply "Mr. Roosevelt" and published by E. P. Dutton & Co., reaches eulogistic heights rarely, if ever, has been attained before. It is not too much to call this the greatest biography of an American statesman ever written.

THE interesting thing is that the author belongs to a people generally renowned for understatement. Mr. Compton MacKenzie is one of the most prolific of British writers, a gentleman who has written 64 books in 36 years, which is practically a record. But it is safe to say that this, his 65th book, is the most glowing, breathless and excited of them all. Literally, the man worships his subject. He conveys the idea that, though he doubts the wisdom of entering the field of contemporary biography, so fascinated and thrilled is he with the Roosevelt personality that he could contain himself no longer.

—O—

HE HEAPS praise upon the President until he is practically unrecognizable. Through 250 pages he paints him as the flawless man, perfect physically, intellectually, spiritually, a gift of the gods to humankind. He goes further and ascribes perfection to all the members of his family—Mrs. Roosevelt and all five children. What Mr. MacKenzie has done is very clear. He has taken all of the eulogies written of Mr. Roosevelt, including Mrs. James Roosevelt's "My Boy, Franklin," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's "This Is My Story," Ernest K. Lindley's "Franklin D. Roosevelt," Gerald W. Johnson's "Roosevelt" and the Emil Ludwig eulogy—he has taken all these eulogies, plus his personal interviews with the President, and written the super eulogy of his time.

THE RESULT is something stu-

CANNOT STAND WALLACE

Resentment in the Democratic
convention of 1940 aroused by President Roosevelt's insistence
upon the nomination of Henry
Wallace for Vice-President is
widely remembered. Southerners,
who had one of their own men
groomed for the place, all but
rose in their seats and howled.

Now Southerners are doing all
they can to prevent a recurrence
of that incident. They are determined to eliminate Wallace before the convention opens. That
explains much of what has happened in Texas and South Carolina and of what may happen in
other states.

Democratic leaders have con-
ferred with the President in re-
cent weeks in regard to Wallace.
Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have
asked whether they can agree
upon a man who has Presidential
appearance and ability, who will
attract votes, who is not vulner-
able to Republican attack and who
is acceptable to the President.
That last order probably would
be the hardest to fill.

Democrats have under consideration Speaker Rayburn, Sen-
ators Barkley, Byrd, Lucas and
Truman; Secretary Hull, Under-
secretary Stettinius, James
Byrnes and James Farley, Gov-
ernors Kerr of Oklahoma and
Broughton of North Carolina and
General Marshall. John Winant,
ambassador to Great Britain, is a possibility. He is nominally a Republican.

Practical politicians have told
the President that renomination
of Mr. Wallace will result in a
minimum loss of 2,000,000 votes
next November. But a serious
complication is the CIO, whose
Political Action Committee is ex-
pected to be powerful in mar-
shalling the left-wing vote. The CIO is reported virtually to have
demanded that Wallace be re-
nominated. If the South can shed
its slavish partisanship, the po-
tentialities of dissension in the
New Deal party will be immense.

VITAMIZED BASEBALL

To make baseball games zip-
pier, a planned program of dosing
ball players with multiple vitamins—a formula similar to that
used by the Army—has been
undertaken by eight major league
teams.

To make the players act like Flying Fortresses fueled with
high octane gasoline, 85,000 of
the pellets will be consumed the
remainder of the season by players in both major leagues.

The step follows the successful
experiment by Sam Bredon, who
has been feeding his Saint Louis
Cards multiple vitamins since
1942 and which may have ac-
counted for the Cards' pennant
winning form in 1942 and 1943.
Or it is possible that the eight
team managers reached the conclusion that if the Army, which
is winning one engagement after
another, including double head-
ers, is shoveling out millions of
pep-up tablets, there must be
something in the pills that ambitious baseball players need.

The report that Montgomery
Ward will dedicate its next cata-
log to the fourth term is probably
a canard.

NEWS BRIEFS FROM SUBURBAN TOWNS

HULMEVILLE

Members of William Penn Fire
Co. will make a house-to-house canvass on Monday evening, June 12th,
asking for financial donations to
the William Penn Fire Co. This will, as last year, replace the usual
money-raising affairs. Residents are asked to be worthy to aid the
firemen in this worthy cause.

EMILIE

The Rev. and Mrs. William Boyer
were Sunday dinner guests of Mr.
and Mrs. Frank Hibbs. The Rev.
and Mrs. Boyer left on Wednesday
to deliver a series of talks on their work in the Belgian Congo throughout the Southern States from Wilmington, Del., to Miami, Fla.

ANDALUSIA

Angela Gabriele, aged nine, will give two solo dance numbers, a toe
dance, a "cerville" and an acrobatic
dance number, at the annual recital
of Northeast School of Dancing, Philadelphia, in Pennypack Theatre, Holmesburg, this evening. Angela will tour this summer with a troupe for the U. S. O.

YARDLEY

Several teachers of Yardley high school have resigned. Mrs. Robert W. Russell, who has been the teacher of languages for the past eight years, will leave the teaching profession. Miss Vivian Pennell, science and mathematics teacher, expects to assume work elsewhere, as does Clarence Rumpf, music supervisor. Thomas Green, shop teacher, expects to be drafted into military service. Richard Irvine, substitute
teacher of social studies, expects to resume his college work.

Cadet "Ted" Peterson, son of Mr.
and Mrs. Ernest G. Peterson, was graduated from Staunton Military Academy on May 30th. He was an outstanding member of the varsity

football, boxing and baseball teams.
He will now enter the armed forces.
The next meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will be a picnic at the home
of Mrs. Alfred Chapman. During
the business session, officers will be elected for the coming year.

Frank Borden, Jr., who has completed his boot training in New York, is home on a 10-day leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Leedom
had as a recent guest, Mrs. Albert
S. Comfort, of Trenton.

Mrs. Samuel Allen, of South
Main street, sustained a sprained ankle when she slipped in the yard
at her home Sunday.

NEWPORTVILLE

Cpl. Irwin Brambley, of Kentucky, is spending an 11-day furlough with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Erny have received word from their son, Sgt.
George Erny, that he has arrived
in New Guinea.

Miss Dorothy Knight, Pennypack
Woods, was a week-end guest of Miss Elaine Muller.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers,

Philadelphia, are spending the summer at their home in Echo Beach.

The monthly meeting of the Cornwells Manor Civic Club was held at the home of Miss Elaine Muller on Thursday evening. After a short business meeting refreshments were served. Meetings will be discontinued for the summer months, but will start again the first Thursday in September at the home of Mrs. H. Ritter.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Katzman
had as guests on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Knight, Sr., and children, "Jimmy" and Dorothy, Pen-
nypack Woods; Mrs. Annie T.
Knight, Bustleton; and Miss Elaine Muller, Cornwells Heights.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

pendous in the way of praise. As a Roosevelt eulogist Mr. MacKenzie makes all the other eulogists
seem restrained—even unfriendly.
A notion of what this Englishman
has achieved in eulogy can be gained from the fact that some of Mr. Roosevelt's most devoted friends have been made a little sick by reading it. One reviewer,
Mr. Karl Schriftgiesser, writes in the Saturday Review of Literature
that "even as ardent an admirer of
Mr. Roosevelt as this reviewer
hardly realized what a great man
has been President since March 4, 1933." He declares the book to
be "essentially a British plea to
continue him in office until the
war is ended."

IF THIS is so, it is singularly
inept. For, the average American's
reaction to the superlatives of this
volume would hardly be favorable.
In fact, it has been suggested that
it might pay the Republicans to
circulate it as widely as possible.
Aside from the fact that as a child
and young man, Mr. MacKenzie,

inconsciously, makes his hero out
of a dreadful little prig, there are
many purple passages that might
be used with effect. For example,
there is the touching little anecdote which Mr. MacKenzie offers of Mr. Roosevelt at the age of 5.
One day, he writes, the child ap-
peared sunk in melancholy from
which his parents could not arouse
him. At last his mother, a little
alarmed, asked the boy whether
he was unhappy. He did not, says
Mr. MacKenzie, answer at once,
and then said very seriously, "Yes,
I am unhappy." When his mother
asked him why, says Mr. Mac-Kenzie, he was silent for a mo-
ment or two, and "then with a
curious little gesture that combined entreaty with a suggestion

of impatience, he clasped his tiny
hands in front of him and ex-
claimed, "Oh, for freedom." Mr.
MacKenzie is convinced that this
was, indeed, a portentous utter-
ance and suggests that it was a
reflection of the Declaration of Independence and a forerunner of
the Four Freedoms.

THIS IS a small incident in a great
career, but it is typical of the book
and illustrates the way Mr. Mac-Kenzie has handled his subject.
From that anecdote on he grows in
virtue, wisdom, character, courage,
until one is literally appalled at his
perfection, and even ardent admirers like Mr. Schriftgiesser are astonished. We are told of his "mar-
moral serenity" and his "Olympian

detachment." He is favorably compared to Wilson and Churchill. The MacKenzie estimate of his ser-
vices to mankind is best described
in this passage: "If at this moment
democracy can still be acclaimed as
the political ideal of humanity, it is
due supremely to Franklin D.
Roosevelt, who has illuminated the
ancient word with his own vitality
so that it glows again as warmly
upon his lips as upon the lips of
Pericles in the market place of
years ago."

IT IS pretty hard to beat that as a
tribute, but Mr. MacKenzie tries
in his concluding paragraph. In
this he declares that "The Vatican
trusts Roosevelt, Jewry trusts

Roosevelt, Germany trusted France trusts
Roosevelt, Greece—glorious in her
chains—trusts Roosevelt, martyred
Poland trusts Roosevelt, dogged
Holland trusts Roosevelt; China,
risen from a sleep of centuries,
trusts Roosevelt; Latin America, so
long a suspicious neighbor, trusts
Roosevelt. Even the poor, poisoned
heart of Italy beats feebly for Roosevelt. And we of the British Empire trust the man who, speak-
ing in the common tongue, first
gave us the assurance of victory
when adamant Churchill had
pledged our honor to the proud
defiance he knew we desired to
offer." There is no doubt about
it—this is tops. Mr. Roosevelt at
last has found a biographer who
really appreciates him.

Alcoa Gets 3 Runs From Black, But Damage Ends There

GAME ENDS AT 15 TO 4

Winners Score Markers In 2nd, 3rd and 4th Innings

EDGELEY, June 7—The Alcoa team got to Howard Black for three runs in the first inning but that was the extent of the damage done to the veteran twirler as the Voltz-Alcoa team scored an easy 15-4 victory over the Burlington team last evening on the Edgely diamond.

The winners scored all their markers in the second, third and fourth innings as the Alcoa team went completely to pieces. The Burlington team was charged with nine errors.

"Bill" Leigh, of the winners, hit a home run in the fourth with one on base. He also had a double in the second.

SINGLE BY WELSH GAINS CLOSE TILT

TRENTON INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE Schedule for Tonight CASE PACKERS - ROHM & HAAS (Maple Beach field)

TRENTON, June 7—A single by "Billy" Welsh in the eighth inning gave the American Steel nine a close 4-2 triumph over the Rohm & Haas batters on Wetzel field in a Trenton Industrial League contest.

To begin that fatal eighth, Johnny McGowan singled and Don Henry walked. Both advanced on a sacrifice and came home on Welsh's hit.

"Eddie" Sullivan did the twirling for the chemical mixers and held the Steelers to seven hits. He was in quite a bit of difficulty in the fifth when the Steelers loaded the bags with no one out. But Eddie promptly settled this by fanning the side.

Norman Jones pitched for the winners and held Rohm & Haas to four hits. Two of these, by Hetherington and Dick and a hit batsman, gave the Bristol team its pair of runs in the sixth.

DIAMOND FAILS TO HOLD 5-RUN LEAD

Failing to hold a five-run lead, the Diamond team lost to the Badenhausen nine last evening on the Rohm and Haas field. Final score was 10-7. Six runs in the final frame did the trick for the Badies.

The Diamond boys massed a 7-2 lead by scoring six times in the second and with Danny Keegan on the hill it appeared to be another Diamond triumph but the Cornwells boys scored twice on Danny in the fourth on a walk, a double by Bowman and an error.

In the sixth, the Mill Streeters went completely to pieces and Manager Diamanti had to call in Volvin to finish the game. Five hits and two walks did the trick for the iron-workers and mixed in the hits were a double by Trapp and a triple from the bat of Paul.

Bristol High Has 91 Graduates in Class of '44

have met the challenge of new and multiple duties brought about by a global struggle. That 60 per cent of high school students are working on farms, in war industries and in other business after study periods was one point stressed. That action on the military front must be supported by action on the home front, and that students are working beside their parents in a common national effort the audience was also informed. Tribute was paid to the American man in service, with incidental music provided by the choir and band. As a salute to those in the various branches of the service the marines, air corps, navy and army songs were played, uniformed band members then making their way to the stage with one bearing the American flag. The singing of the national anthem was followed by the flag salute led by a member of the class who is now in the U. S. Navy, Earl Vetter.

Other speakers were: John Capriotti, James Costantini, Jane Brennan, Eugene Cordisco, Samuel Gesualdi, Marie Yaniro, Patricia Henry, Joan Townsend, Jacqueline Lowrie, Robert Conklin, Catherine Dugan, Mae Bernard, Glenn Felix, Alfred Iannucci, Noma Albright, Irene Chrusciel, Marie Cherubini, Virginia Napoli, Susan Masko, Mary Antonelli, Winifred Mercer, Olive Johnson, Betty Lynch, Evelyn Rotondo.

The first gift announced was on behalf of the class. To the school the class donated the sum of $100 (originally received for library books) plus the sum of approximately $50, class treasury balance, the money to be placed in the athletic field fund. Alfred Iannucci announced the gift, with acceptance by Mr. McEuen.

Other awards are as follows:

Prizes awarded by the Mothers' Association, and announced by the president, Mrs. Jacob Townsend:

$5 is awarded to the pupil in the seventh grade judged the best penman by three commercial teachers of the high school, winner James Di Lissio; $5 to the girl in any class of the high school showing not only ability in athletics, but one who has proven herself a true sports (participation in two major sports for girls, basketball and hockey suggested), winner Mabel Heath; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in mathematics, winner Ruth Watson; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in the general business course, winner Marie Claire Sorenson; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in the secretarial course, winner Katherine Hemminger; $5 to the pupil securing highest average in a standardized test covering all the work in Latin, winner Ruth Watson.

Scholastic awards presented by the Bristol Fathers' Association, and announced by Frederick Featherstone, a watch to the individual of the senior class who has attained the highest scholastic average for the three years of his senior high school career, in each of the following courses, academic, commercial and industrial arts. The recipients of these awards in the respective courses of study are: Academic, Ruth Ann Watson; Industrial arts and home economics, Russell P. Ginther; commercial, Katherine Edith Hemminger; $5 to that member of the senior class whose work and efforts have been of greatest value in the major curricular activities, athletics not included, winner Calvin E. Solla; $5 to that senior of the Rambler staff whose work has contributed most to the success of the school paper, winner Jack Sirott; $5 to that boy of the senior class whose all around activities in athletics has been of most value during his school career, winner Leo Johnson.

Music awards for 1944 presented by Abraham Bustraan on behalf of Bristol Exchange Club—Award to the senior who has demonstrated the most progress (instrumentally) during their period of high school participation; and who has thereby proven the most invaluable person of his or her class in the school's instrumental music department, winner Charles Peet; award to the senior who has merited it for all around participation, co-operation, and general high standards in all phases of the school's musical programs, winner Wilbur Stetson; an award to the senior who has merited it for willing voluntary service, all around participation, co-operation and in discharging many of the less pleasant and less obvious duties concerning work in music, winner Anna White; honorable mention was accorded to Calvin Solla and Mary Jane Wimmersberger.

On behalf of the Bristol Rotary Club John Slemmer presented the following prizes to the graduates: $10 to the senior industrial arts boy whose service has been most meritorious to the department of industrial arts, prize divided with equal awards for Russell F. Ginther and Eugene F. Cordisco; $10 to the senior home economics girl whose service has been most meritorious to the department of home economics, awarded to Susan Masko.

Franklin Wallin, on behalf of the Rohm & Haas Chemical Company presented the following: $10 to the senior who has attained highest scholastic average in the senior high school sciences of biology, chemistry and physics, winner a member of the 1944 class attaining an average of 93.667 in the senior high school sciences, Wilbur Harold Stetson.
